

For Sale.

16 Lockheed Electras ready to go.

If you are a company in need of your own plane or an expanding airline looking for additional equipment, here's your opportunity to buy it at a fraction of the original cost. We're retiring our fleet of Lockheed L-188 Electras because we've replaced them with pure jets.

Each of our Electras has been maintained to transport category standards. Because they've been in service until very recently. So you're not buying a mothball fleet, but planes ready to fly.

After the sale we'll be happy to assist you with a variety of maintenance and support services. You'll find our Miami facility can provide you with major airframe servicing, engine and propeller overhauling, technical assistance and a complete inventory of spare parts. Even pilot training if you wish.

Our Electras have served us well and they can do the same for you.

All inquiries should be made to: George R. Dutton, System Director, Equipment Sales and Service, Eastern Airlines, Miami International Airport, Miami, Florida 33148. Phone: (305) 873-6651. Telex: 051642.
